COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The spring meeting of the Maine Municipal Association was held at Rockland on June 5th and 6th. One of the important topics was "Legislative Review." This was a review of legislation affecting municipalities and the operation of your local government. Some of the important changes, as follows: There has been no provision in the election laws pertaining to municipal elections to allow absentee voting. A bill was passed to allow absentee voting, providing the town so votes. Another bill provides that towns may have five members on the school committee, if the town so votes.

Since Maine became a state the election laws have never been revised, but have had numerous amendments that have made them cumbersome and difficult to understand and interpret. A complete revision has been passed bringing them up to date with clarifications that can be understood.

Another bill provides for the state to reimburse small towns having welfare cases that are expensive.

A piece of legislation has to do with the granting of ADC (Mother's Aid) to families where the father is experiencing a prolonged period of unemployment.

Chapter 192 provides that the Selectmen may now make ordinances regulating traffic and parking without first having it approved at a town meeting.

Chapter 322 eliminates the requirement of having to include a zoning ordinance or amendments thereto in the town meeting warrant. However it will be necessary to post a certified copy next to the warrant.

Beginning next year Gold Star Mothers will receive a tax exemption. More details will be available later on how it is applied.

Intangible property is now exempt. Most towns were already exempting this type property and the new legislation will legalize the procedure.

A bill was passed improving the collection procedure of delinquent dog taxes. This will not be available to use until next year.

It is usually only the more important and the controversial bills that hit the newspaper headline. The above will give you some idea of the smaller bills that have been or are in the process of being enacted.

Sincerely,
Harold L. Bean

No need to figure, wonder, guess—it's meaning STOP, no more, no less!

It's based on faith that you and I will heed its message, not drive by.

To young and old, to high and low this sign means STOP, not just go slow!

A flashing red light is the same as a STOP sign with a different name.

STOP when the light is blinking red, when traffic's clear, then go ahead.

COUNTRY FLAVOR RISING TIDE

A green wave has rolled across the meadows and fields, it has surged over upland pastures and flooded hills and granite ridges in the golden mellowness of a June day, grass waves ripple before the gentle wind.

A few weeks ago the countryside was brown and drab. Now the day of Year's climax approaches. At the time of the solstice more flowers open their hearts to the sun than on any other day of the annual cycle.

The green deepens across America. The silvery green of starting leaves turn to a deeper hue. Long lines of starting corn above brown and point a pattern of green against the golden green of young plants. The green of the corn is the green of the corn, the green of the corn is the green of the corn, the green of the corn is the green of the corn.

This is the high tide of Year. Hedgerows are filled with the fluttering of young birds, insect life is at its peak, fruit is ripening on the vine, and the birds' brief ecstatic dawn chorus is the final fortissimo passage of the spring symphony.

He who is sensitive can feel the surging urgency as he walks in verdant meadows or across boulder-dotted uplands. This is the time of the Indians' Wawo Resin—Long Day Beauty. This is the period of glowing greens, the time of freshness in leaf and grass.

Soon Year will reach high tide and the pendulum will swing the other way. But for a period in June, the rising tide covers the land with rich, glowing shades of green. Man, busy with the routine of life can add richness to his experience if he will look and see the beauty of the swelling tide.

TODAY'S meditation

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Thursday, June 8: Read John 5:21-29

Blessed is he that readeth, and they that hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written therein: for the time is at hand. (Revelation 1:3.)

During the past two years in my nursing field, I have been through many temptations and hardships. It was so great a burden on me that I almost forgot there was a God. Suddenly, a change came to my mind; instead of studying my lessons one rainy night, I took my Bible and opened it to the book of Revelation. After reading that part of the Bible, I was frightened because I had forgotten God's book which is meant to be everybody's guide. Accepting the Lord as my Savior and reading the Bible as my guidebook, I have now become very happy. Many changes have come into my life since then. I have overcome the many temptations that confronted me. The Bible is the key to all my doings. My advice is to believe in Jesus and read the Bible every day.

PRAYER: Almighty God, creator and ruler of all heavenly and earthly things, may our worship of Thee have more vitality and our lives encourage others to follow Thee. Lead everybody to read the Bible and spread the good tidings. For Christ's sake. Amen.

Thought For The Day
The Bible is my chart in the voyage of life, and Christ the captain of my soul.

Business: A committee, consisting of Bonita H. Judy, Patty Todd, Bonnie Ellingwood, was chosen for the Club Exhibit at the fair in the fall. It was reported that 11 out of the 12 members marched in a group on Memorial Day. We carried a poster to identify ourselves and were felt clovers on our arms. Our leader complimented us for the manner in which we marched when we had not had time to practice.

We were reminded that it is up to us, individually, to finish our project work, for we do not plan another regular meeting until sometime in August.

It has been suggested that the three clubs in West Paris go together to buy a large banner to be used at group affairs. We discussed this and voted to give five dollars for it if the other clubs want to.

We discussed our tour. Since most of us are taking cooking classes, we do not have our work to show, while those taking clothing have already shown their work to us, we would like to make a tour of a bakery if possible.

After the business portion of our meeting, Bonita Ellingwood and Caroline Palmer gave book reports. We brought our record sheets for June check-up and went over them.

For recreation we played games out of doors.

meeting until sometime in August.

It has been suggested that the three clubs in West Paris go together to buy a large banner to be used at group affairs. We discussed this and voted to give five dollars for it if the other clubs want to.

We discussed our tour. Since most of us are taking cooking classes, we do not have our work to show, while those taking clothing have already shown their work to us, we would like to make a tour of a bakery if possible.

After the business portion of our meeting, Bonita Ellingwood and Caroline Palmer gave book reports. We brought our record sheets for June check-up and went over them.

For recreation we played games out of doors.

MAINE ADOPTS HUMANE SLAUGHTER LAW

Maine's recent adoption of a humane slaughter law makes it the seventh state to ensure painless slaughter for most meat animals.

The statutes, which will go into effect July 1, 1962, is believed to be the first state humane law enacted during the current legislative sessions.

The new law conforms substantially to regulations provided under the federal humane slaughter law which was passed last year. Use of a manually operated hammer or sledge to stun animals is prohibited.

Anesthesia similar to that used with humans before an operation will be used in many plants to immobilize hogs and keep them unconscious for about one minute, twice the time needed for slaughtering, reports Cardox Division of Chemetron Corporation, which supplies carbon dioxide to the packers.

Other methods approved by the federal law are electric shock and mechanical bolt stunning. All must render the animal unconscious in a painless manner before it is killed, according to the Albright-Nell Company, a major producer of equipment for the meatpacking industry.

The law also regulates animal handling. Regulations on types of equipment to be used, construction of driving chutes, and training of handling personnel are expected to eliminate bruising and reduce panic among the animals.
